Dandapani Fall 2022
THE POWER OF UNWAVERING FOCUS

There is a missing element in most discussions of mindfulness: focus. You can't be mindful without the ability to concentrate! This book offers a practical, step-by-step guide for understanding and harnessing focus. It details a process for learning, practicing, and mastering both concentration and willpower. Readers will gain the ability to direct awareness and energy toward achieving life goals. Applying these proven methods empowers readers to overcome distraction, worry, fear, anxiety, and stress. Dandapani is a Hindu priest, entrepreneur, and former monk. He is a sought-after speaker at events and companies worldwide, and his Tedx Talk "Unwavering Focus" has been viewed almost five million times.

QUIT

Fall 2022

There are obviously times in our lives where we need more persistence, but it is equally true that there are times when we need less persistence. Quit will make the case for quitting and why it is so important to be a great quitter to improve decision-making under uncertainty to achieve real success. It will explain the forces that work against good quitting behavior and present strategies to become better at quitting. It will also help readers understand how to use quitting as a strategy to be more adaptive, build better models, and execute better on the things to which they actually commit. In addition to being rich in science, Quit relies on narratives from a variety of fields to illustrate and apply its ideas, spanning elite athletics, business, entertainment, investment, the military, adventure and personal endurance, public policy, poker, and other games. Narrative examples will also include a range of personal decisions, including education, jobs, relationships, home ownership, New Year's resolutions, where to eat, and even which grocery line to choose. Knowing when to stick and when to quit is the key to successfully navigating the world. Annie Duke is the bestselling author of Thinking in Bets and How to Decide. She is a former professional poker player and the co-founder of the Alliance for Decision Education.

Hoyne, Neil Summer 2022
COMPETING ON DATA

For more than a decade, Neil Hoyne has been advising companies how to use digital marketing to grow their business. He argues that the marketing approach of most businesses is obsolete. They think in the short-term (did people purchase based on the ad offered up at this one moment?) and they try to figure out what "everybody" likes rather than identifying their best customers. But as Hoyne shows, 80% of revenue comes from cultivating 20% of the customer base. Hoyne teaches is a different way to gather, interpret, and use data to grow the bottom line. He shows how to shift from a transactional to a relationship-based mindset to capture long-term value. Written in a conversational, non-technical style, this is a book for marketers and executives looking for a clear growth strategy that will propel their business forward with unambiguous results. Hoyne serves as Google's Chief Measurement Strategist, leveraging market insight to accelerate data-driven growth for Google's top-spending advertisers. He is a Senior Fellow in Customer Analytics at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Klebahn, Perry, and Jeremy Utley IDEAFLOW

Fall 2022

Here directors of Stanford's d.school restore creativity to its position of central importance in business, offering managers, leaders, and entrepreneurs a robust and flexible set of disciplines for generating more and better ideas—dramatically boosting the creative output of their organizations. Any firm's continued existence depends on its ability to come up with new solutions. When presented with a problem, many new ideas are key, as only a flood of new ideas can generate one great one. In creativity, quantity drives quality. And measuring creativity boils down to ideaflow, the metric of creative capacity, which quantifies how many genuinely novel solutions one can generate around a given problem in a given amount of time. Thus improving ideaflow generates tremendous value in the marketplace. There is nothing magical or precious about the process of creativity. The more ideas you generate, the better you get at generating ideas. The more ideas you put into action, the better you get at acting on ideas. It's hard to imagine a more fundamental or useful skill at a time like this. Klebahn is an Adjunct Professor and Director of Executive Education at Stanford d.school. Utley is the Director of Executive Education at the d.school and an Adjunct Professor at Stanford's School of Engineering.

STRONG: My Journey

When it comes to sheer muscle, anyone who has seen Terry Crews in the show Brooklyn Nine-Nine or his movies knows he is strong. Now Crews shares the raw, never-before-told story of his quest to find the true meaning of the word that has defined his life. In Strong, he examines six arenas where he desperately sought control—masculinity, religion, money, sex, racism, and friendship—and recounts the setbacks and victories he faced while uprooting toxic masculinity from his psyche and finally confronting his insecurities, painful memories, and limiting beliefs. Only by cultivating self-awareness and vulnerability was he finally able to achieve self-mastery. Crews' journey of transformation offers a model for anyone who considers themselves a "tough guy" but feels unfulfilled, anyone struggling with procrastination or self-sabotage, and anyone who admires Crews for his seeming invincibility.

BUY THIS, NOT THAT: How to Spend Your Way to Wealth and Freedom

When it comes to our money, many of us believe that to acquire more we have to spend less. But the truth is that a mindset of skimping and frugality can lead you to miss opportunities for income growth and kill your dreams of early retirement. To live our best life today—while planning for an even better tomorrow—we need to make smarter, not fewer, spending decisions. In Buy This, Not That, Sam Dogen shares his strategies for building wealth, no matter how much money you have in the bank. With hard numbers and his signature straight talk, Dogen reveals the spending dos and don'ts for the biggest, and the smallest, purchases of your life. Dogen founded Financial Samurai in 2009. One of the pioneers of the modern-day FIRE movement, he was previously at Goldman Sachs and Credit Suisse, from which he retired at age 34.

WAR WITHOUT RULES: China's Playbook for Global Domination

Feb. 2022

For years now, American politicians have made the mistake of expecting the Chinese Communist Party to play by the rules. The truth is that the CCP has only one rule: that in the new warfare anything goes. This no-holds-barred philosophy isn't even a secret—it's laid out in a book that has become China's new Art of War. In War Without Rules, retired Air Force Brigadier General Robert Spalding takes Americans inside this book of Chinese strategy. Unrestricted Warfare, written in the 1990s by two Chinese colonels, argues that there is no sector of life outside the realm of war and offers a guide to using corporate espionage, global pandemics, and trade violations to achieve dominance. Spalding walks readers through the principles of this book, explaining the new philosophy and showing that China has already employed its tactics to gain economic, technological, and military power over the West. More than a vital read for those interested in China, War Without Rules is essential reading for anyone—from policymakers and diplomats to businessmen and investors—finally waking up to the stealth war. General Spalding is the author of Stealth War. He is a former China strategist for the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Joint Staff at the Pentagon, as well as a senior defense official and defense attaché to China.

Van Edwards, Vanessa Feb. 2022 CUES

Whether you like it or not, people are going to make snap judgments about your smarts, credibility, talent, and worth. Why not make sure they're good ones? As behavior researcher and bestselling author Vanessa Van Edwards shows in Cues, you actually have a great deal of control over what others make of you. Even better, you don't need to change who you are or what you value in order to make a better impression. The key is to become fluent in the language of cues, or tiny signals that we send to others through our body language, facial expressions, word choice, and vocal inflection. Cues are the difference between being perceived as credible or smarmy, smart or flighty, professional or a complete mess. In Cues, you'll learn how to control and interpret these low-res signals that have a massive impact on how you come across to others. Van Edwards is the author of Captivate.

Dell, Michael Sept. 2021 PLAY NICE BUT WIN: A CEO's Journey from Founder to Leader

This is a riveting account of the three battles waged for Dell Technologies: one to launch it, one to keep it, and one to transform it. For the first time, Michael Dell reveals the highs and lows of the company's evolution amid a rapidly changing industry—and his own, as he matured into the CEO it needed. With humor and humility, he recalls the mentors who showed him how to turn his passion into a business; the competitors who became friends, foes, or both; and the sharks that circled, looking for weakness. What emerges is the long-term vision underpinning his success: that technology is ultimately about people and their potential. More than an honest portrait of a leader at a crossroads, Play Nice But Win is a survival story proving that while anyone with technological insight and entrepreneurial zeal might build something great—it takes a leader to build something that lasts. Ryan Sept. 2021

This is the first in a new four-book series—modeled in the same accessible and beloved style of Ryan Holiday's bestselling The Obstacle is the Way, Ego is the Enemy, and Stillness is the Key—bringing each of the four cardinal virtues of Stoicism to an audience that is crying out for them. In Courage is Calling, Holiday breaks down the elements of fear, an expression of cowardice; the elements of courage, an expression of bravery; and lastly, the elements of heroism, an expression of valor. Through engaging stories about historic and contemporary leaders, he shows how to conquer fear and practice courage in your daily life. In a world in which fear runs rampant—when people would rather stand on the sidelines than speak out against injustice, go along with convention than bet on themselves, and turn a blind eye to the ugly realities of modern life—we need courage more than ever. We need the courage of whistleblowers and risk takers. We need the courage of activists and adventurers. We need the courage of writers who speak the truth—and the courage of leaders to listen. Holiday is also the author of Lives of the Stoics and The Daily Stoic, as well as Perennial Seller, Growth Hacker Marketing, and others.

Risk: A User's Guide offers a new system to detect and respond to risk. Instead of defining risk as a force to predict, General Stanley McChrystal shows that there are in fact ten dimensions of control we can adjust at any given time. By closely monitoring these controls, we can maintain a healthy Risk Immune System that allows us to anticipate, identify, analyze, and act upon the ever-present possibility that things will not go as planned. Drawing on examples from military history to the business world, and offering practical exercises to improve preparedness, McChrystal illustrates how these ten factors are always in effect, and how by considering them, individuals and organizations can exert mastery over every sort of risk that they might face. McChrystal retired in July 2010 as a four-star general in the U.S. Army. He is the author of Team of Teams, Leaders, and My Share of the Task.

MY LIFE IN FULL: Work, Family, and Our Future

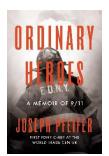

Indra Nooyi is a business tycoon like no other. At a time when women, especially women of color, had limited access to the C-suite, Nooyi showed the world that women have a place at the top. Now, Nooyi wants to help more women, particularly working mothers, secure leadership positions. In this profound, deeply personal memoir, you'll read about Nooyi's journey from Madras, India, to Yale University, to her first consulting job at Booz Allen Hamilton, and finally, to the C-suite of PepsiCo. Alongside these stories of triumph, Nooyi also recounts the sacrifices that her family had to make so Nooyi could be both a CEO and a mother. Nooyi argues that modern workplaces are still designed for men and single-earner households, and she presents a six-point plan for creating a workplace that prioritizes family and empowers women. My Life in Full is a rallying cry for women at every stage of their careers, and a manifesto for change for every corporate executive and policy leader.

Stulberg, Brad Sept. 2021 THE PRACTICE OF GROUNDEDNESS: A Transformative Path to Success That Feeds—Not Crushes—Your Soul

High achievement comes at a cost. For many of us, angst, restlessness, frayed relationships, burnout, and even substance abuse are unwanted side effects of an obsession with outward achievement and one-upmanship, against both self and others. When suffering from this "heroic individualism," the high of occasional wins sustains you for a while. But ultimately, when your best-laid plans fail, you face unforeseen obstacles, or when lasting satisfaction proves elusive, you feel aimless and struggle. Here Brad Stulberg shares a new model for success that defies our "never enough" culture. At the heart is groundedness—a practice that values presence over rote productivity, accepts that progress is nonlinear, and prioritizes long-term values and fulfillment over short-term gain. Ultimately, groundedness produces a firm and unwavering sense of self, one from which deep and enduring, not shallow and superficial, success can be found. Stulberg is the coauthor of Peak Performance and The Passion Paradox.

Bédat, Maxine
UNRAVELED: The Life and Death of a Garment

June 2021

Unraveled shows us the people and goods at the mercy of our global economy—and how disturbingly fragile it is. Sustainable fashion expert Maxine Bédat tracks the iconic American pair of jeans from the beginning of its life to its end. A Texas cotton farm struggles to get by without relying on fertilizers that poison the earth. Dying and weaving factories in China pump chemicals banned in the West into waterways used to irrigate farms. In Bangladesh and Sri Lanka, rickety factories crammed with women working for illegally low wages produce garments as efficiently as machines. Back in America, our jeans travel through Amazon warehouses in suburban America to a Brooklyn landfill—or they get shipped around the world again to secondhand markets and trash heaps in Ghana. In a journey that loops around the world, creating a dizzying amount of waste and leaving a trail of human and environmental destruction in its wake, Unraveled shows us the story behind our clothes, weaving together the stories of modern clothing with the details of the people who make it, to produce a richly researched portrait of our global marketplace—and what it's costing us. Bédat is the founder and director of the New Standard Institute at New York University, a center dedicated to establishing alternatives to current supply and production chains.
