Andrews, V.C.
LOSING SPRING
October 2023

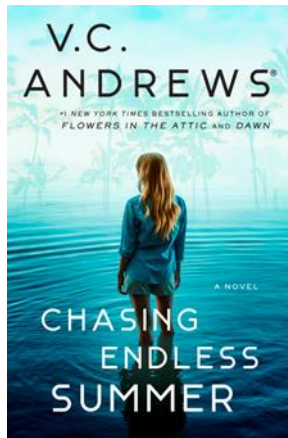

Caroline Brady is the daughter of a very conservative TSA agent and former military brat, Morgan Brady. Her mother Linsey Brady is a descendent of the Sutherland real estate family. Their organized, suburban life in Colonie, NY is rigorously regulated and leaves little room for deviation from the norm. When Linsey, Morgan, and Caroline attend the wake of their neighbor Mr. Gleeson, they meet his charming daughter Natalie “Nattie” Gleeson, who works for the American ambassador to France. Linsey and Nattie strike up a fast friendship as women of a similar age in very different places in their lives--Linsey a devoted mother and housewife, and Nattie an international diplomat living an independent and freewheeling life. Their friendship soon evolves into a romance, leading to the collapse of Linsey’s marriage and her disinheritance from the Sutherland family fortune. In true V.C. Andrews fashion, a whirlwind of unexpected death, family estrangement, and a forbidden inheritance become Caroline’s new reality as she struggles to navigate the loss of her mother, the mind-boggling wealth of the Sutherland family (who quickly lock her away from the world), and the loss of contact with her father following the divorce.

One of the most popular authors of all time, V.C. Andrews has been a bestselling phenomenon since the publication of Flowers in the Attic, first in the renowned Dollanganger family series, which includes Petals on the Wind, If There Be Thorns, Seeds of Yesterday, and Garden of Shadows. The family saga continues with Christopher’s Diary: Secrets of Foxworth, Christopher’s Diary: Echoes of Dollanganger, and Secret Brother, as well as Beneath the Attic, Out of the Attic, and Shadows of Foxworth as part of the fortieth anniversary celebration. There are more than ninety V.C. Andrews novels, which have sold over 107 million copies worldwide and have been translated into more than twenty-five foreign languages. Andrews’s life story is told in The Woman Beyond the Attic. Join the conversation about the world of V.C. Andrews at Facebook.com/OfficialVCAndrews.

THE THINGS WE DIDN'T KNOW

February 2024

Andrea Rodríguez is nine years old when her mother whisks her and her brother, Pablo, away from the Woronoco, a tiny New England factory town that is the only home they've ever known. In the years that follow, Andrea and Pablo are brought back to Woronoco, only to discover a rapidly changing town and an All-American culture they almost—but can never quite—fit into. ST. AMBROSE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

July 2023

When Sarah Taylor arrives at the exclusive St. Ambrose School, she's carrying more baggage than just what fits in her suitcase. She knows she's not like the other girls—if the shabby, all-black, non-designer clothes don't give that away, the bottle of lithium hidden in her desk drawer sure does. St. Ambrose's queen bee, Greta Stanhope, picks Sarah as a target from day one—the most popular, powerful, horrible girl at school is relentless in making sure Sarah knows what the pecking order is. Thankfully, Sarah makes an ally out of her roommate Ellen “Strots” Strotsberry, a cigarette-huffing, devil-may-care athlete who takes no bullshit. Also down the hall is Nick Hollis, the devastatingly handsome RA, and the object of more than one St. Ambrose student's fantasies. Between Strots and Nick, Sarah hopes she can make it through the semester, dealing with not only her schoolwork and a recent bipolar diagnosis, but Greta's increasingly malicious pranks. Sarah is determined not to give Greta the satisfaction of breaking her. But when scandal unfolds, and someone ends up dead, her world threatens to unravel in ways she could never have imagined. THE ST. AMBROSE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS is a dangerous, delicious, twisty coming-of-age tale that will stay with you long after you turn the last page.

SURE, I'LL JOIN YOUR CULT: A Memoir of Mental Illness and the Quest to Belong Anywhere

September 2023

Maria Bamford is comedian's comedian (an outsider among outsiders), and has forever fought to find a place to belong. From struggling with an eating disorder as a child of the 80s, to navigating a career in the arts (and medical debt and psychiatric institutionalization), she has tried just about every method possible to not only be a part of the world, but to want to be a part of it. In Bamford's signature voice, SURE, I'LL JOIN YOUR CULT brings the reader on a quest to participate in something. With sincerity and transparency, she recounts every anonymous fellowship she has joined (including but not limited to: Debtors' Anonymous, Sex & Love Addicts Anonymous, and Overeaters Anonymous), every hypomanic episode (from worrying about selling out under capitalism, to enforcing union rules on her Netflix TV show set to protect her health), and every easy 1-to-3-step recipe for fudge in between. Singular and inimitable, Bamford's memoir explores what it means to keep going, and to be a member of society (or any group she's invited to) despite not being very good at it. In turn, she hopes to transform isolating experiences into comedy that makes you feel less alone (without turning into a cult following).

Maria Bamford was awarded Best Club Comic at the American Comedy Awards and Breakout Comedy Star at the Montreal Comedy Festival, her critically acclaimed work includes her web series "The Maria Bamford Show" (featured at MOMA NY), "Ask My Mom" (recommended by The New Yorker), and her Netflix series "Lady Dynamite." Maria's writing has been featured in The New York Times, LA Weekly and The Onion. Maria has contributed comedic voice overs for such animations as Netflix's "Big Mouth" and "BoJack Horseman," Cartoon Network's "Adventure Time," PBS's Emmy-winning series "Word Girl," Nickelodeon's "Kung Fu Panda" and "Legend of Korra," and the international hit "Talking Tom and Friends." She can do about 11 voices, not including her own, but just a little higher and faster. For her mental health advocacy, she's been presented with The OCD Foundation's Illumination Award and featured at the Psychotherapy Networker Symposium, The Chautauqua Institution and the Saks Institute for Mental Health Law, Policy and Ethics Symposium. She's not always right for these rooms, but she's on time and pleasant. (From MARIA: This was all in the third person, though I wrote it myself, which is slightly creepy. My apologies. If you need help, dial 911. I know. Health care can be super shitty. Go get yourself that shitty-ass help! I love you and think you deserve it.)

Belfort, Jordan

WOLF OF INVESTING: My Playbook for Making a Fortune on Wall Street

October 2023

From Jordan Belfort, author of The Way of the Wolf and subject of the hit movie The Wolf of Wall Street, comes his long-anticipated guide for mastering the stock market. The Wolf of Investing teaches you when to buy, sell, hold, and cash out; how to make smarter (and safer) investments; and how to build significant wealth over both the short- and long-term. Unlike traditional investment books, each page of Jordan's lessons, colorful stories, and principles entertains the reader with the charismatic swagger portrayed so famously on the silver screen by Leonardo DiCaprio. When Belfort's brother-in-law, Fernando, lost nearly $100,000 dollars in investments in under 60 days, Jordan sat him down for some tough love. Using the financial acumen and insider's knowledge he learned during his time working on Wall Street, Jordan taught Fernando how to turn his portfolio around. Along the way, he explains which decisions were bad and why, as well as how to pivot from failure to success. Belfort teaches you everything you need to know about savvy investing--even if, like Fernando, whatever stock you've touched has turned to yesterday's trash. As you read this guide, you will not only learn life's most profitable lessons, but you'll also laugh out loud at Belfort's brazen honesty and salty wit. After being enraged by watching big banks steal money from individual investors, and determined to right the wrongs of his own infamous past, Belfort now shows regular investors how we can use Wall Street to our advantage. Whether you're new to investing or want to take your portfolio to the next level, you will learn everything Belfort knows about the stock market from The Wolf of Investing.

Jordan Belfort has acted as a consultant to more than fifty public companies, and has been written about in virtually every major newspaper and magazine in the world, including The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, Los Angeles Times, The Times (London), Herald Tribune, Le Monde, Corriere della Sera, Forbes, BusinessWeek, Paris Match, and Rolling Stone. His two international bestselling memoirs, The Wolf of Wall Street and Catching the Wolf of Wall Street, have been published in over forty countries and translated into eighteen languages.

EVEREST, Inc: The Renegades and Rogues Who Built an Industry at the Top of the World

April 2024

Every spring, newspapers run variations on the same photograph: a conga line of climbers trudging toward the top of the world. Op-ed pages rehash rants about overcrowding, and magazines like the New Yorker publish tick-tock how-it-happened deep-dives of how things went wrong. Mount Everest has become a reality show of sorts, with a cast of characters that make us shake our heads. Everyone seems to be aware of the circus, but few know how we got here. Everest, Inc., examines our obsession with the world's highest peak and unravels that knot, revealing why Texas oilman Dick Bass becoming the 170th or so person to summit the mountain in 1985 is a far more important milestone than Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay becoming the first to summit in 1953. It was this moment, when a wealthy charmer with zero ability to survive the mountain on his own made it to the peak, that kicked off the next forty wild years of triumph, tragedy, and absurdity on Everest. Unlike any Everest book to date, Everest, Inc. puts all the stories you've heard—and many you have not—into context, through the eyes of the people who witnessed the evolution first-hand. Through hundreds of interviews with mountain guides, clients, Sherpas, pundits, writers, Hollywood actors, pro climbers, and others, Cockrell brings the story of the guiding industry arms race to life, and with it the entire mountain, in its glory and calamity.

Though it has no shortage of Darwin Award-worthy, schadenfreude-eliciting tales, the book transcends cliché and presents an uplifting but overlooked counternarrative of Everest. It's the story of how, despite the growing disdain for those willing to buy their way to the top, an army of journeymen and women mountain guides have quietly become experts at making dreams come true for people around the world. Amidst the greed and narcissism is genuine soul searching among those willing to pay the ultimate price for transformation.

Will Cockrell has spent more than 15 years as a senior editor, writer, and consultant for national magazines including Men's Journal, Outside, Men's Fitness, and GQ. His writing has been awarded by the American Society of Magazine Editors, Professional Publishers Association UK, and the LA Press Club. A former outdoor guide, Cockrell has covered Everest throughout his career, and has visited Everest base camp in Nepal. He lives with his family in Mammoth Lakes, California. Duggar, Jill

COUNTING THE COST

September 2023

Jill and Derick knew a normal life wasn't possible for them. She grew up as the star of the mega-successful TLC reality TV show 19 Kids and Counting. As one of the famous Duggar children, Jill's entire life has been the subject of reality television, tabloids, and inquiring eyes. Especially after her eldest brother's high profile arrest and conviction for possession of child pornography, and allegations of child molestation, the family's spotlight was brighter than ever. Her father, Jim Bob Duggar, negotiated a deal for a new show with Jill as the star without asking if she wanted to participate. At the time, Jill and her boyfriend (now husband) Derick knew it wasn't right, but didn't want to rock the boat so they hung on as long as they could, until they couldn't. In their first book together, Jill and Derick will finally tell the truth about the entire Duggar façade: the lies and manipulation behind the scenes, the intimidation from Jim Bob, the IBLP—a cultish organization the family is aligned with—and, finally, how and why they broke free with the help of their love for each other and faith in God. For the first time, they are bound by no NDAs or confidentiality provisions and are free to speak their truth.

Jill and Derick were in the public eye right from their first date, due to the TLC reality TV show 19 Kids and Counting. Jill was the first Duggar daughter to marry, and over 4.4 million people tuned in to watch their two-hour wedding special on television. Jill and Derick's married life was featured on the show, Jill & Jessa: Counting On, and Jill is currently the oldest daughter living outside her parents' home. Along with three of her sisters, Jill has previously written and published the New York Times bestseller, Growing Up Duggar. Jill and Derick Dillard live in Northwest Arkansas with their three sons.

Gorrindo, Simone

THE WIVES: A Memoir

March 2024

Cover TBD

It wasn't just that I didn't know how to describe what I was going through. It was also that I knew I didn't have to. That was the bewitching power of spending time with the wives. The shorthand, the way we could say so much about our lives to one another without saying much at all. At twenty-eight years old, Simone Gorrindo quit her dream job in New York to follow her husband Andrew to the South as he enlisted in an elite unit of the Army. Arriving in rural Georgia to a drab bungalow far from the city and publishing career she once loved, Simone is an unlikely soldier's wife, struggling to find herself—and the man she thought she knew. When Andrew deploys to Afghanistan with an elite combat unit for the first time, Simone begins to realize that nothing could have prepared her for the reality of sending her partner off to war. Except, perhaps, for the wives. In Andrew's long absences, Simone discovers the resilient network of other women left behind. At first reluctant to count herself among this group of devoted young mothers and homemakers, Simone soon understands the necessity of their bond: while their husbands belong to the Army, the wives belong to each other. They gather for lunches and dinners, begin a book club, weather pregnancies and illnesses together, share in unspeakable fears. A phone call or a few blocks away, they intertwine their lives, enduring their loneliest nights in each other's company. What follows is an intimate look into the inner lives of a unique American sisterhood. In prose rich with raw emotion and insight, Simone deftly captures the strangeness and solace of these new friendships, fierce attachments formed between disparate women facing the unimaginable together. But as the war drags on and Andrew's deployments extend, she begins to realize they have both been profoundly altered. When anxiety and the secrets they must keep from one another threaten to consume her, Simone wonders who has made the greater sacrifice. THE WIVES is at once a tender, unflinching portrait of a marriage and a testament to the power of friendship in unexpected places. It is a moving meditation on love and belonging, an exploration of what it means to find home—in ourselves, in our communities, in each other. It is a powerful and wholly unique perspective on human connection in the shadow of modern war.

Simone Gorrindo is a writer and independent developmental editor living in Tacoma, Washington with her husband and two children. Her writing has appeared in The New York Times, New York Magazine, Longreads, The Los Angeles Review of Books, The Christian Science Monitor, The Best Women's Travel Writing, SELF, and others. She holds an M.S. in journalism from Columbia University, and has received fellowships and grants for her writing and reporting from the International Women's Media Foundation, the Georgia Council for the Arts, the Hambidge Center for Creative Arts and Sciences, and the Scripps Howard Foundation.

Henderson, Rob

TROUBLED: A Memoir of Foster Care, Family, and Social Class

February 2024

Rob Henderson was born to a drug-addicted mother and a father he never met—and grew up in ten different foster homes in California. When he is finally adopted into a loving family, he is hopeful that life will finally be stable and safe. But divorce, tragedy, poverty, and violence mark his adolescence and teen years, and Henderson enters the military upon completing high school. He recounts the steps and missteps he took to escape the drama and disorder of his youth. Despite success after success—a military career, an undergraduate education from Yale, a PhD from Cambridge—Henderson can never shake the feeling of being on the outside looking in. In this unflinching portrait of shattered families, desperation, and determination, Henderson reflects on his expectation-defying young life and juxtaposes his story with his friends who wound up incarcerated or killed. He argues that stability at home is the strongest predictor of future success, and he illustrates the ways the elite among us benefit from a set of social standards that actively harm the most vulnerable.

Rob Henderson grew up in foster homes in Los Angeles and the rural town of Red Bluff, California. He joined the Air Force at the age of seventeen. After his enlistment, he graduated from Yale University with a BS in psychology and was subsequently awarded a Gates Cambridge Scholarship. Once described as “self-made” by the New York Times, Rob received a PhD in psychology from St. Catharine’s College, Cambridge in 2022. His writing has appeared in the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, the Boston Globe, and the New York Post, among other outlets. Rob’s popular Substack newsletter is sent each week to more than thirty thousand subscribers. Learn more at robkhenderson.substack.com.

I REGRET ALMOST EVERYTHING

May 2024

A memoir by the legendary restaurateur Keith McNally, proprietor of Balthazar, Pastis, and Morandi, among other celebrated spots. The book will take us from his gritty London childhood to his serendipitous arrival in New York, where he founded the era-defining establishments The Odeon, Cafe Luxembourg, Canal Bar, 150 Wooster, and Nell's. HEIRLOOM ROOMS: Soulful Stories of Home

October 2023

Our homes are more than an assemblage of bricks and glass, wood and nails. They are the keepers of our childhood memories, our milestones and heartaches. They live and breathe and evolve as we do. As a family grows and eventually retracts, a home can change hands and begin again. We are the chapters in the book of a house. They carry on after we are gone, setting the stage for another story, a new life, new memories. One of Erin's favorite houses was her grandmother's. As she got older, and bought a home of her own, and then a few more as she and her husband, Ben, launched a wildly successful business and television show, she realized she didn't have any photographs of the home, itself. She had plenty of memories, but no pictures. Not the beautiful photos that fill the design books, but the snapshots of the every day life that happened in each room. HEIRLOOM ROOMS sets out to change that. Alongside Erin's beautiful recollections and photography of each room in a house are stories and snapshots of her friend's lives, as they live them, in the houses they call home. Imperfect, real, a little messy, but happy and full of family, and of life, encouraging each reader to appreciate the home they have, and all the things it holds.

Erin Napier is a designer and entrepreneur who started her career in corporate graphic design before founding her own international stationery company, Lucky Luxe, and is a founding co-owner of Laurel Mercantile Co. Together with her husband Ben, they live and restore homes in Laurel, Mississippi on HGTV's Home Town. Their passion for small-town revitalization and American craftsmanship is evident in their store, Laurel Mercantile Co., where they design and manufacture heirloom wares and durable goods made exclusively in the United States.

DRUNK-ISH: Loving and Leaving Alcohol

January 2024

When Stefanie Wilder-Taylor became a mother, being able to connect with other moms over drinks, or enjoy a glass of wine at the end of a stressful day, felt life-affirming. From liquor cabinet concoctions in high school, to room temperature beers in her early stand-up comedy days, to grocery store wine in young motherhood, alcohol was the seasoning that could give almost any activity more flavor. A drink instantly took the edge off, brought Stefanie to stasis, and made even the most difficult adversary (be it a tough crowd in a comedy club or a judgmental PTA mom) not just bearable, but fun. After a neighborhood party where Stefanie drives home drunk with her twins in the car and nothing goes wrong, she realizes that she shouldn't wait for tragedy to strike to acknowledge that her relationship with alcohol has become unsustainable. Having spent a lifetime grappling with the question of whether or not she is a "real" alcoholic, Stefanie decides that it doesn't matter; if quitting drinking can make her a better person and a better mother, it's worth it to get sober. Stefanie's memoir is a tender and funny farewell letter to a beloved but toxic friend.

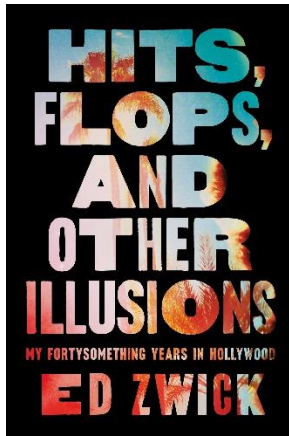

Stefanie Wilder-Taylor is the author of Sippy Cups Are Not for Chardonnay and Naptime Is the New Happy Hour. She has written and produced more than thirty television sketch, clip, and variety shows, and been featured on the Today show, Oprah, Dr. Phil, Larry King Live, The Dr. Oz Show, and the award-winning PBS show Real Savvy Moms. She lives in Los Angeles with her husband and three young daughters. Visit her website at StefanieWilderTaylor.com.

Zwick, Ed

HITS, FLOPS, AND OTHER ILLUSIONS: My Fortysomething Years in Hollywood
February 2024

"I'll be dropping a few names," Ed Zwick confesses in the introduction to his memoir about living and working in Hollywood. "Over the years I have worked with self-proclaimed masters-of-the-universe, unheralded geniuses, hacks, sociopaths, savants, and saints. Mostly, I've found myself surrounded by brilliant, talented, funny-as-fuck artists, cast and crew alike." Great behind the scenes Hollywood stories, warmly told, are the heart and soul of Zwick's book. No wonder, given that storytelling has been his trade for the past forty-five years, from the time ABC named him showrunner of Family in his mid-twenties. The title of that show would prove fitting, as Zwick would become known on the groundbreaking series Thirtysomething (and all the subsequent projects he'd create and direct) for fostering an environment of deep familiarity amongst the cast and crew. With eighteen Academy Award nominations for the films he directed (four wins) and sixty seven Emmy nominations for the television series and specials he created or ran (twenty two wins), he's given everything he has to the business he loves, has gotten a lot back, and has memories he's now ready to share. One reason for his success is the special talent he's shown for bringing the best out of the people he works with, most of all, the actors. As "a mere mortal hiding behind the camera watching the drama of gods and goddesses, then wading into a shit storm where I presume to tell everybody what they're doing wrong," he's wrestled with imposter syndrome while trying to discover the small pieces of connective tissue that will help an actor realize their character in full. Among the talents whom Zwick spotted early in their careers and nurtured in this way are Brad Pitt (who guest starred on Thirtysomething before he was cast as the lead in Legends of the Fall), Matt Damon (who was acclaimed for his role in Courage Under Fire before he made Good Will Hunting), Denzel Washington (who won his first Academy Award for Glory), Clare Danes (who rocketed to stardom as a teenager in My So-Called Life), and Jared Leto (ditto). He also worked closely with established stars including Leonardo DiCaprio, Anthony Hopkins, Tom Cruise, Julia Roberts, Anne Hathaway, Daniel Craig, Jake Gyllenhaal, Bruce Willis, Demi Moore, Jennifer Connelly, and so many others. If that wasn't enough, he battled Harvey Weinstein in a lawsuit over Shakespeare in Love (and won.) And in two rare feats, he's worked with the same creative partner, Marshall Herskovits, since they met at the AFI Film Conservatory, and has been married to the writer and producer Liberty Godshall since 1982. Now, he looks back at it all—mostly with love, sometimes with rue—in a memoir that is also a meditation on working, sprinkled with tips throughout for anyone who has ever imagined writing, directing, or producing for the screen. Readers with an appreciation for the art, craft, and business of making films and television won't want to miss this blockbuster.

Ed Zwick is an Academy Award and Emmy Award-winning director, writer, and producer of film and television. A graduate of Harvard and the AFI Conservatory, he lives in Los Angeles with his wife, Liberty Godshall.

BREAKING BIDEN: Exposing the Hidden Forces and Secret Money Machine Behind Joe Biden, His Family, and His Administration

August 2023

In the first of its kind, Alex Marlow delivers a deeply researched investigation into the Biden presidency: the administration, his family, and the hidden forces behind it all. Joe Biden's long career in Washington is full of embarrassing gaffes, disastrous policy decisions, and unfulfilled promises that resulted in his predictably dysfunctional and unpopular presidency. Using top-secret sources he has cultivated as the top editor at Breitbart, Marlow offers original reporting on the people and institutions behind the poor decision making, including Vice President Kamala Harris, the CDC, WestExec advisors, and other members of the Biden Deep State. From crippling inflation to COVID, the tragedy in Afghanistan, rising violent crime, and divisive woke politics, Biden's government is a monumental threat to America. Why was the clearly unqualified Kamala Harris chosen as his running mate? What is the meaning behind the high number of Biden administration officials that come from a few secretive consulting firms? And exactly how rich is the Biden family, and where is the money coming from? Marlow answers these questions and more as he pulls back the curtain to reveal the inner workings of a calamitous regime.

Alexander Marlow is the New York Times bestselling author of Breaking the News. He serves as Editor-in-Chief of Breitbart News Network, where he started as Andrew Breitbart's first employee at the age of twenty-one. Alex has been on the cover of Time and Newsweek, named in Forbes' "30 Under 30," and called "perhaps the most significant media figure in America." He also hosts the flagship show Breitbart News Daily on SiriusXM's Patriot channel.

HALO: Battle Born (February 2024) ; HALO: Battle Born: Meridian Divide (March 2024)

Now back in print: a YA novel set in the Halo universe—based on the New York Times bestselling video game series!

Gallery is reissuing two classic YA novels set in the Halo universe—based on the New York Times bestselling video game series! In Battle Born, Saskia, Dorian, Evie, and Victor aren't exactly friends at their small high school on the middle-of-nowhere colony world of Meridian. Each has their own problems, from absent parents to supporting their family, getting into a good college to making the next hit holo-film. But those problems were nothing next to the threat now facing their world: The alien alliance known as the Covenant is laying siege to Meridian, for reasons that aren't so easily explained. With their village in flames, the four teens find themselves stuck aboveground, locked out of the town shelter where the rest of the survivors are gathered. Together, Saskia, Dorian, Evie, and Victor are thrust into battle with nothing but a few scavenged weapons and an injured Spartan, one of the UNSC's super-soldiers. What's forged from the destruction will determine the fate of Meridian, and tilt the battle for humanity's survival. In Meridian Divide, it's been three months since the colony world of Meridian was invaded by the alien theocratic alliance known as the Covenant. Under the close watch of the military, Evie, Dorian, Saskia, and Victor have been put into an accelerated training program with the Office of Naval Intelligence. And to the teens' surprise, ONI has a mission for them: Return to their hometown on Meridian and monitor the Covenant's efforts to retrieve an ancient Forerunner artifact of untold power. But what seems like a simple job quickly spirals out of their control. With the artifact at risk of falling into Covenant hands, the stakes are raised, and ONI tasks the teens and their team of militia fighters with extracting the artifact for study. After a series of missteps with command costs the militia more than half their fighting forces, the group takes matters into their own hands. Their journey will take them far behind enemy lines, into the heart of the war zones on a ravaged Meridian.
